The Hottest Webcam HUB, by Earth Trek

Rate this News: [stars]

Here's excellent news for those with the new "traveling webcam Hub" designed by Earth Trek (Hong Kong). We said "excellent" but we don't know why.... It looks like a simple desktop webcam, but the Hong Kong maker announced it as the "hottest webcam"...

According to Earth Trek it's " Different from general webcams, this desktopversion can avoid scratches on your LCD screen"... Hummm... yep, why not, and it's probably true since we're talking about a web camera designed to be used on a desktop...

As Daimaou said, it's like storing your car in a garage to avoid damaging it.

It features a metal sliding cover to protect the camera, an auto focus, auto brightness, snap button, and a 2 port USB Hub. It provides a VGA quality image (640x480), and has a 1.3 Mpix sensor.

The announced price is $45-$49 US.
